“SOMEBWHERE ALONG THE WAY, WE MUST LEARN THAT THERE IS NOTHING GREATER THAN TO DO SOMETHING FOR OTHERS.”

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.
I am pleased to greet you on behalf of Carlos Wilson, Board Chair, and the staff of MCLS. The year 2018, like years before, had challenges for legal aid and the low income community, but as in years past, all persevered. There were some efforts with inadequate staffing and resources, but there were also meaningful accomplishments for clients in areas like domestic relations, domestic violence prevention, income maintenance, parent representation and foreclosure defense work. I can dare say that there was progress, but there is still much work to be done before equal justice is played on a level playing field.

The Board Chair, board members, and staff recognize that the provision of legal aid to the poor is not yet recognized by all as an entitlement, but still considered by many as a privilege that can be taken away. We know that what we do and the benefits that low income persons receive because of our work, would not be available without the support of so many persons inside and outside of the legal profession. We do not take this support for granted, and for this, we extend our continuing appreciation.

We invite you to share in this report, which hi-lites some of our struggles and accomplishments over the past year. More importantly, we invite and encourage you to continue your support for low income persons. We strive to strengthen our existing partnerships and build alliances with others who also believe that everyone is entitled to a full range of legal services.

Our special thanks to our funders listed below. Without your support, we could not continue to work to level the playing field for poor people. We ask that you remain committed and we encourage others to join the fight so that equal justice for all will someday become a reality, and not just remain an ideal concept.

Thank you.

Sam H. Buchanan, Jr.

We could not begin to do our work without the funding from federal, state, public, private and other contributors. To each funder, we are grateful.

Why Legal Services Funding is Urgently Needed

Who We Are
Chartered on May 1, 2004, MCLS covers five (5) historic programs: Central Mississippi Legal Services (CMLS), Southwest Mississippi Legal Services (SWMLS), East Mississippi Legal Services (EMLS), South Mississippi Legal Services (SMLS) and Southeast Mississippi Legal Services (SEMLS).

More Mississippians than ever before live in poverty. At least 812,860 persons are eligible for free civil legal aid. The provision of legal assistance and representation to these indigent citizens unable to afford private counsel is the goal of the Mississippi Center for Legal Services (MCLS). In fact, MCLS is the only provider of a full range of civil legal aid in many, if not most, of our state’s central and southern rural communities.

Presently, to serve MCLS’ 43 counties, there are five (5) service offices: Gulfport, Hattiesburg, Jackson, McComb and Meridian. Historically, MCLS (its predecessor programs) had 16 office locations. With the closures of 11 office locations, it is not uncommon that clients travel 90 miles to a service office. Many travel at least 60 miles one way.

Access to our courts threatened
When “minimum access” funding was reached in past years, MCLS employed approximately 56 attorneys. Presently, MCLS employs 18 attorneys in its service offices. Three (3) of its 18 attorneys provide counsel and advice through the Call Center and four (4) attorneys provide limited scope representation through special grants. There is 1 attorney for every 26,000 eligible persons. In contrast, the general public enjoys approximately 537 attorneys, for every person.

MCLS receives about 72.07% of its funding from the Legal Services Corporation, Washington, D.C. This funding has sharply declined from $3,205,135 in FY 2010 to $2,697,239 for FY 2018.

For many years, MCLS’ second source of funding was IOLTA (Interest on Lawyers’ Trust Accounts). Its funding has also decreased drastically from $1,030,130 in 2008-2009 to $44,700 in 2018-2020.

Types of cases Not handled
Among prohibitions are class actions, certain fee-generating cases, legal assistance with respect to criminal proceedings, actions collaterally attacking criminal convictions, abortions, euthanasia, redistricting, representation in drug related evictions, litigation on behalf of prisoners, and most illegal aliens.

Who is eligible?
Financial eligibility is based on income (total receipts before taxes) of all persons who are resident members of the household. Total receipts include money (wages and salaries, income before any deduction) and regular payments from public assistance (Social Security, SSI, etc.) of all persons who are resident members of and contribute to the support of the family unit. The threshold for eligibility is 125% of poverty. At 125% of poverty, income for a household of 4 is approximately $32,188.

Who we serve?
The MCLS attorneys help poor mothers obtain child support, provide defenseless children with access to education and health care, and protect the rights of the elderly and the vulnerable. The program solves critical and urgent legal problems for homeowners, victims of domestic violence, disaster victims, children with special needs, workers seeking fair treatment and countless others. In 2018, MCLS served approximately 10,323 persons. An additional 2,712 were helped through referrals and community outreach and education.

Our clients are as diverse as the State of Mississippi, inclusive of all races, ethnic groups and ages. They include the working poor, families with children, farmers, veterans, elderly and disabled. Many work minimum wage jobs of $7.25 per hour, and have incomes that do not exceed $15,080. Over one-half of those eligible for services must be turned away, due to a lack of resources.

ESSENTIAL BENEFITS MAINTAINED
Client filed for disability benefits on May 16, 2013 on the basis of a traumatic brain injury and injuries to the left side of her body from severe physical abuse between 1 and 2 years of age. Client continued to suffer from physical and mental impairments. She was found to be disabled as a child on February 25, 2015 with a protective filing date of May 16, 2013. By Notice date February 19, 2016, it was determined by the Social Security Administration (SSA) that the client was no longer disabled based on a aged-redetermination of disability for adults. The client contacted MCLS for assistance on February 28, 2017. The issue was that client became ineligible for child disability benefits when she became age 18, and had to meet the definition of disability on the rules for adults who file new applications. Client continued to be disabled based upon her medical condition as medical improvement was not an issue at the aged-redetermination level. Client appealed the decision of SSA and a hearing was held in the matter on October 26, 2017.

After receipt of post hearing consultative evidence, ordered by the SSA, MCLS’ advocate requested additional time in which to draft a brief letter in support of client’s claim. The advocate was successful in arguing that client’s ability to function independently and interact with supervisors is severely limited based on the evidence and that client met the Listing of Impairments set forth by law. Consequently, on May 1, 2018, Administrative Law Judge found that the severity of the client’s impairments met the adult standard, and that client continued to be disabled, and was eligible to maintain SSI benefits.

HOMELESSNESS Averted
Client, single 33 year old mother of three (3) was sued by her landlord for $1,637. The landlord maintained that client was responsible for damages caused to the rental property when a pipe burst during severe winter weather. Client was out of town for the Christmas holiday, and unaware that the pipes had burst. MCLS’ attorney was successful in arguing that client was not negligent, did not cause the damage, and had no contractual duty under the lease for the damages. The Court ruled in favor of the client. Client received a Section 8 housing voucher for low income persons that allowed her rent to be subsidized by the Housing and Urban Development (HUD). If the Court had determined that client was responsible for the damages, client would have lost her housing voucher unless the damages were paid in full. As a result of MCLS’ representation, client’s voucher continued. Thus, allowing client to provide housing for herself and her children.

CHILDREN SAFELY RETURNED
Client, the mother of two minor children ages 5 and 7, allowed the children to visit their father out of the State of Mississippi with the understanding that the children would be returned in time to enroll in school. When it was time to return the children, the father refused. With no Order of custody, client’s self help efforts were not successful nor was she rendered assistance by the local authorities. The McComb office filed an action in Mississippi, the home state of the children. The action sought custody, a ruling that jurisdiction lied within MS, and asked the assistance from the out of state court in having children returned. The advocate successfully negotiated a custody settlement and the return of the children to their stable home.

FAMILY FREED FROM DOMESTIC VIOLENCE
Client, a 32 year old female, sought representation for a divorce due to domestic violence by her husband. Client had to seek a Protective Order due to her husband jumping on her in the presence of the parties' four children who were ages 8, 9, 13 and 14. There was an incident that occurred the weekend before Client sought representation when her husband came to Client’s home after calling her making various threats that he was going to kill her and that he did not care about any police. Whereas, upon arriving at the home, the Client's husband broke in by damaging the front door and he also damaged the master bedroom door trying to get to his wife where he threatened to kill her and their 14 year old daughter. He told his wife that he had a dream that he was going to prison because he killed her and he told his daughter that "he brought her into this world and he will take her out of this world." Client's husband was actually inside the house when the police officers arrived and he was arrested again.

Client was awarded the relief that she requested including custody of the four minor children, the right to carry the minor children as exemptions for State and Federal Income Tax purposes, and her husband was enjoined from harassing, injuring, or disturbing the quiet peace of her and the minor children.
2018 was a busy year for the Mississippi Center for Legal Services’ Foreclosure Prevention Program. The program is funded by the Bank of America Settlement Grant through the Mississippi Bar Foundation. Over the course of 2018, Chayah Yisrael, the Foreclosure Prevention Project Officer, and other employees from the Mississippi Center for Legal Services (MCLS), attended several community outreach events to discuss legal services offered in general as well as legal services provided by the foreclosure grant. The information presented at these events covered legal discussions regarding Mississippi laws that govern the foreclosure process in Mississippi, steps to take when homeowners face delinquency and/or foreclosure, federal laws that provide protections to homeowners, reverse mortgage foreclosure issues, foreclosure scams targeted towards the elderly and, practical tips for homeowners who are facing delinquency and/or foreclosure. As a result of the outreach activities in 2018, the Foreclosure Project Officer and MCLS staff spoke to over 850 people.

Additionally, the Foreclosure Prevention Project Officer reached the communities through media outlets. Specifically, in March, 2018, Ms. Yisrael spoke on the WMPR 90.1 radio station on a show entitled “Women for Progress”. WMPR broadcasts with 100,000 watts of power and reaches an audience within an 80 mile radius of the Jackson, Mississippi area. The radio station specializes in gospel and blues but also serves the listening audience with a number of community-oriented talk shows and has been touted as “The Voice of the Community”. Ms. Yisrael provided a wealth of information to the listening audience including tips on foreclosure prevention; laws in Mississippi regarding foreclosure, and eligibility requirements for the MCLS. Afterwards, she accepted call-in questions from the listening audience. The outreach activity was targeted at reaching homeowners in the Jackson and surrounding areas who may be facing delinquency and/or foreclosure.

In May, 2018, Ms. Yisrael was interviewed on WTOP’s live television broadcast entitled “The Morning Show” at 6:00 a.m. She discussed the upcoming event of “An Evening of Community Service” for the Meridian and surrounding areas. Ms. Yisrael addressed several questions regarding foreclosures in Mississippi, foreclosure laws and prevention as well as why it’s good for homeowners to know how to protect themselves in the event of delinquency and/or default.

Loan Modification Obtained to Help Save Home

One of our MCLS’ clients sought assistance with a foreclosure after his bankruptcy was dismissed for non-payment. The client’s mortgage company threatened immediate foreclosure against his home after the bankruptcy dismissal. When the client called the MCLS, he wanted to see if he could obtain a loan modification from the mortgage company. The client needed a reduction in his home payments because his income had been reduced due to medical illness. Ms. Yisrael was able to assist the client with several issues on his home including adding his daughter to the mortgage so that she could assist him with monthly payments. Ms. Yisrael worked with the Managing Attorney in the Hattiesburg office to prepare a quick claim deed from the client to himself and to his daughter. The deed was subsequently filed in the county land record’s office. This information was sent to the mortgage company while Ms. Yisrael negotiated with the mortgage company on the loan modification terms. The mortgage company accepted the quick claim deed and added the daughter to the mortgage account. The mortgage company subsequently granted the loan.
THE JACKSON OFFICE:

Making a Difference in the Lives of Our Seniors & Persons with Disabilities

On September 6, 2018, the City of Jackson hosted its 25th Annual Senior Health and Wellness Fair at the Jackson Convention Center Complex. The Mississippi Center for Legal Services (MCLS) has participated in this health and wellness fair for at least 20 years. In 2018, employees Chayah Yisrael, it’s Foreclosure Prevention Project Officer, and Iola Gleese and Hertistine Latiker, Legal Secretaries, attended the fair and catered to approximately one-hundred fifty nine (159) of two hundred (200) seniors who participated. They provided information about program services, general eligibility, and reasons to seek legal advice when encountering legal problems. They discussed with attendees the importance and requirements for wills and estates, Advance Healthcare Directives, housing and foreclosure issues, Social Security benefits, Medicaid, Medicare, and how to access services through the MCLS Call Center.

MCLS employees answered many questions asked by seniors as they stopped at MCLS’ display table. Informational brochures on legal services, flyers with MCLS’ contact information, and types of cases handled were distributed to all persons present. Participants were informed of the availability of services through the elderly grant provided by CMPDD for legal assistance. Audience participation was excellent!

After presentations were made on selected topics, MCLS staff allotted time for one-on-one consultation.

Homestead Exemption Secured

In 2011, Clients, one of whom was disabled, entered into a real estate contract with a finance company for the purchase of their home. In 2013, Clients paid off the finance company and were given a Quitclaim Deed. In the same year, Clients made application for homestead exemption, and were denied. Clients were informed that the denial resulted because the Quitclaim deed was defective in that another financial company had an interest in their home, a claim which Clients denied. In 2017, Clients contacted MCLS whose advocate filed a Complaint to Quiet and Confirm Title. A subsequent Judgment was entered correcting the title in favor of the Clients. This had a significant impact on the Clients’ lives. They needed the deed corrected to obtain homestead exemption and to borrow money for repairs.

Barbara and Worship 2 were very much a part of the 50th Anniversary of Malaco Recording’s Gospel Celebration held at the Thalia Mara Hall in Jackson, Mississippi on July 12, 2018. Barbara and Worship 2 had the opportunity to sing with Gospel Recording Artist Ricky Dillard during the McDonald’s 2018 Inspiration Gospel tour on August 10, 2018, which concert generated much needed funds for the Batson’s Children Hospital in Jackson, Mississippi. Ms. Brown and the other choir members at West Point Baptist Church helped Christian Services, Incorporation of Hattiesburg feed thousands with their Annual Thanksgiving Community Dinner to the homeless and needy families throughout the Pine Belt on November 20, 2018.

Funchess who will be the recipient of the Lifetime Achievement Award for her work in the area of Civil Rights. Ms. Funchess has been active since the age of ten (10) when she was a student in Freedom School during the 1964 Mississippi Freedom Summer Project in Hattiesburg, Mississippi. Attorney Funchess also donated an 80 piece Civil Rights Art Collection to her alma mater, Hattiesburg High School. Several of the framed art were recently put on display at Thames Elementary School on February 19, 2019, and at the Hattiesburg Public Library on February 27, 2019.
Client’s minor cousin, had been determined to be a child in need of supervision, and as a result of inappropriate behavior, the county prosecutor had become involved to recommend to the Court, placement for the minor. The minor's grandmother who had been granted custody was now deceased, as was the biological father. The biological mother’s health would not allow her to give the minor the guidance and supervision needed. MCLS’ attorney was successful in advocating that it was in minor’s best interest that his adult cousin be awarded custody and that she could provide the structure and supervision needed.

Client’s mother passed away leaving a 16 year old autistic son in need of care, The father was unknown. The McComb office was successful in obtaining guardianship to allow client to meet the special needs of her brother.

Did you know that Mississippi is the only state that does not appoint an attorney to indigent parents when custody of their children has been removed by the state? Fortunately, the Gulfport office provides a Parent Defender for Youth Court cases in Harrison County. The position began as a pilot program implemented in various counties across the state. Ms. Shirley is appointed at the initial emergency shelter hearing to represent parents whose children have been removed from their custody due to allegations of neglect or abuse. Parents facing these allegations are confused, overwhelmed, angry, ashamed, vulnerable and insecure. Generally, the immediate and primary goal is a successful, safe reunification of the parents and children. Understanding why it is vital to strive for reunification requires an understanding of what abuse and neglect look like in our society. It is natural and easy to assume that every Child Protection Services (CPS) case is horrific, but that is simply not the case. In reality, physical and sexual abuse make up less than 20% of all the cases that enter CPS. Long-term abuse is exceedingly rare. The majority of children enter the system due to neglect. Neglect is often a result of poverty, domestic violence, unmet mental health needs, drug abuse or because the parents simply do not know better – not malice or an inherent inability to parent. Poverty makes it difficult for families to access appropriate medical care, mental health treatment, addiction treatment, food, transportation, and stable housing. The vast majority of parents involved in the system are not bad people, but people with limited capacity, support or resources. Neglect is almost never malicious but, rather, situational.

In our society, CPS is granted an exorbitant amount of duty and power. The public operates on a perception that this power is genuinely used to protect abused and neglected children. It is the responsibility of the Parent Defender to hold the CPS case workers accountable and protect vulnerable families. Unless an immediate danger or safety concern exists, CPS must make reasonable efforts to keep families together. In many cases, parents can safely care for their children at home while concurrently receiving mental health treatment, substance abuse treatment, domestic violence counseling, family counseling, or parenting education. However, it is not uncommon for children to be removed prematurely. The Parent Defender provides a voice to the parent and assists the parents in navigating the legal proceedings. To achieve reunification, courts often apply a one size fits all. The Parent Defender advocates on behalf of the parent for relative placement, increased visitation, tailored service agreements, and a speedier reunification. Ms. Shirley assisted 142 families as the parent defender.

Gale has used that experience to zealously represent the best interests of the clients of MCLS’ clients.

Educating Health Care Providers in the Community

On September 18, 2018, MCLS’ Meridian Office participated in a community workshop entitled “Health Care Providers Helping to Navigate the Path of the Lay Caregiver” in celebration of Adult Day Care Week. The workshop was sponsored by the New Beginnings Adult Day Services primarily focused on those who provide health care for loved ones/others. The venue was the Meridian Community College Workforce Development Center. Sixty (60) people attended. The topics included: Community health resources; Caregiver’s Burnout/Depression; Respite care; Infection Control in the Home; Alzheimer’s Brain Health – what you can do to help; Advance Directives, and Wills & Estates. The presenters included professionals from the MS State Department of Health, Alzheimer Mississippi’s Director of Public Policy, Advocacy & Communications; and Gale Walker on behalf of the MCLS. Exhibitors provided gifts, samples, and demonstrations of their products for health care needs.

As a result of this workshop, four (4) clients contacted the Meridian office for assistance with drafting their Last Will & Testament and an additional three (3) clients scheduled appointments to have their Advance Directives for Healthcare drafted. Several people who attended the workshop later called the office to inquire about assistance with custody, divorce, and guardianship issues. A few people commented that they were not aware of the services MCLS provide and would definitely tell their friends and families about MCLS.
HELPING MISSISSIPPIANS’ VOICES BE GREATER THAN ANY FEAR

The Earlene Gardner Victims Assistance Project (EGVAP) was established in the fall of 2017 through funding from the Office Against Interpersonal Violence at the Mississippi State Department of Health. The EGVAP project was created by both North Mississippi Rural Legal Services and MS Center for Legal Services Cooperation. This project was awarded to the State of Mississippi under the Victims of Crime Act (VOCA).

The EGVAP enables the Mississippi Legal Services Programs to address the growing demand for legal assistance to victims of domestic violence and sexual assault. The project provides free legal services to the victims and include: Domestic Abuse Protection Orders, Divorces, Custody, Housing, Victims Compensation, and other civil legal matters.

The Project is to ensure victims have access to readily available services without any restrictions. Often times, victims are forced to remain with their abuser because the abuser is their provider of basic needs. Our hope is that victims become empowered to speak up and out about their circumstances and take back their lives. We want to remind victims to “Let Your Voice Be Greater Than Any Fear.”

MCLS Builds Relationship & Partner with Surrounding Communities

Establishes New Partnership with Jackson State University

The Community In Action (CIA) Fair is a joint venture between MS Center for Legal Services (MCLS) and about fifty public and private businesses and organizations that provide services to the Metro Jackson community. CIA serves as locations for student to complete their required public service hours. The fall 2018 event was hosted by the Alice Varnado Harden Center for Service and Community Engaged Learning at Jackson State University in effort to partner with MCLS and others.

The CIA Fair provided a wealth of knowledge to Jackson State University’s faculty/staff, community based organizations, as well as students. MCLS staff, Carshena Bailey, Esq. and Theresa Williams, were able to meet and network with approximately 50 students who were interested in volunteering. They provided them as well as others with information about MCLS and how our program operates. There were more than 400 people in attendance.

Continued Awareness in the Choctaw Community

In effort to promote awareness and inform the Choctaw Community, MCLS has formed a partnership with Choctaw Legal Defense and continues to build relationships as we host an annual Choctaw Community Law Day event. MCLS believes, it is important to let the Choctaw Community know there is help available. MCLS solicits staff, community leaders, local businesses and attorneys to discuss various topics that will enhance the knowledge and provide information to those in attendance.

On December 13, 2018, the educational workshop included topics from Bankruptcy/Collections to Buying Used Cars/Warranties/Repos and Housing Issues. It is MCLS’ mission to serve eligible persons who cannot afford civil legal services by protecting their legal rights and providing competent legal representation in civil matters.
